

Message from Vice-Chancellor

(Prof J.V. Vaishampayan)

Higher education plays a very critical role in the life of a person, because after completing his education, he enters the real life. As a student he has remained protected by his parents, friends and teachers but when he enters a career, he has to fend for himself as no such protection is available to him. Thus, the role of higher education is not merely to impart knowledge and give necessary skills to their students but also to prepare them for facing the real world with confidence, hard work, grit and courage to take on the various challenges coming in their lives.

In the last several years, it has generally been observed that higher education has failed to deliver human resources, who are knowledgeable, skillful in soft skills and other inter-personal relations, have courage and confidence as well as high values to face several challenges in life. It is the duty of every student and teacher to devote themselves in this great nation building task. There is greater responsibility on teachers in this endeavour.

Let us all devote ourselves to this great nation building effort.
